SEN. WHEELER WON'T SUPPORT WAR CANDIDATE

Montanan Warns He Will Break with Democrats and Administration.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, June 12.—Senator Wheeler, Democrat of Montana, declared in the senate today that he would not support any presidential candidate who is going to try to get us into this war.

"I don't want to have to break with the administration," Wheeler told his colleagues. "I don't want to have to break with the Democratic party, but if it becomes necessary to break with the Democratic party, I shall break with it."

Won't Back War Candidate

"I'm not going to support any candidate for President who's going to try to get us into this war," Wheeler, who differed sharply with President Roosevelt's supreme court reorganization plan, has more recently been reported on friendly terms with the President. He made his assertion today after Senator Holt, Democrat of West Virginia, had asserted that the sale of army and navy equipment to the Allies had been accomplished "under subterfuge and under hypocrisy."

Also today Senator Connally, Democrat of Texas, declared that CCC enrollees "should have had military training from the very beginning" and urged the senate to make it available from now on. He argued in behalf of a controversy-causing proposal to amend the $1,073,584,916 relief bill by providing permission for the President to order elementary military training for CCC boys who desired it.

Sees Move Toward War

"Every move is being made to lead us down the road to war," Wheeler asserted.

Regarding British press interpretations that President Roosevelt's pledge of "moral support" to the enemies of aggression meant the United States would enter the war, Wheeler said:

"We ought to serve notice that a great majority of the senate is not going to vote for war and we're not going to get into it."

"We ought not fool Great Britain and France into thinking we're going to send American boys across the water again to be shot up."

He named a number of persons who he said were seeking to involve the United States in war and mentioned Senator Pepper (D-Fia) at the end. Then he shouted:

"If these individuals want to go over and stop Hitler the senate would not object. I think the man who advocates sending American boys to the battlefields of Europe without himself entering is a cowardly traitor to his country."

Holt Warns Again

Holt said that President Roosevelt had endorsed a "stop Hitler now" advertisement, and then continued:

"We have seen this country led away from neutrality to non-belligerency, and if certain individuals in the government have their way we will strike out the 'non' and be belligerent before the snow flies."

Holt said the Committee to Deny America by Aiding the Allies, which sponsored the stop-Hitler advertisements, was formed by a group which met "secretly" in New York last April. He said the group included Fred R. Coudert, whom he described as a legal adviser to the British embassy during World War days, and Thomas E. Lamont, "whose investments in Europe dovetail with those in the United States."

Holt said that President James S. Conant of Harvard had favored American intervention because "Harvard has a lot of investments in British bonds."

The administration's recent decision to trade in navy planes which could be resold to the Allies was "subterfuge," Holt argued, because, he said, "the planes were not surplus, they were not obsolete."

OHIO CADET HUZZY

Second Session of Short Ship Races Tonight

Horsemen, Cheered by Opening Crowd, Expect Overflow Turnout.

An auspicious inaugural last night, an outstanding card tonight and others coming up for Thursday and Friday was this morning's "nut-shell" picture of the Ohio Short Ship harness racing circuit, playing a four-night stand at the Marion county fairgrounds. Yesterday's threatening weather failed to diminish the size or enthusiasm of the opening night crowd and today's clear skies gave promise of a "fast-clear" track for tonight's racing. Horsemen were jubilant over what they termed "perfect weather" and officials predicted an overflow crowd.

Thursday Card

Thursday night's card, entries for which were declared in today's lists four races with purses totaling $2,100. Forty horses have been nominated for the 10 dashes, to be featured by the $1,000 free-for-all race.

Tonight's feature will be the $1,000 free-for-all trot, in which an account of last night's opening Short Ship races may be found on today's sports pages.

In Races Tonight

Several horses owned near Marion have been named for tonight's races. Brooklyn, the property of Walter Michael of Bucyrus, has been named for the three-year-old pace. Another entry in the same event is Chestnut Lucky Boy, owned by Joe Neville of Delaware, to be driven by Wayne Smart, also of Delaware. Counter Patch, from the Marysville stable of C. D. Baum, is listed among the 13 nominees for the 2:17 pace, as is Peter-at-Last, owned by Gongwer and Reed of Ashland. Favorite of the 17 pace is the Parshall entry, Symbol Prince.

Parshall has declared one of his current Hambletonian prospects for the 2:23 trot in Modern Boy, to be driven by Karl Reck, second trainer of the Parshall entourage. The well-known Houton Stone of Dequoin, Ill., will make his first bid tonight when

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS MARION MAN'S CONVICTION

Decision Made in Case of Floyd Davis.

The Ohio supreme court today upheld the conviction of Floyd Davis, 37, of Fountain street, who is under an indeterminate sentence in Ohio penitentiary on a charge of cutting with intent to wound. The Associated Press reported from Columbus. Davis has been free under $500 bond since shortly after his conviction by a Marion county common pleas court jury last Oct. 30.

He was convicted of cutting to wound Edward McElroy, 22, of near Big Island in a fight at a West Center street cafe on July 21, 1939.

His attorneys, Mouser & Mouser, appealed to the Third district court of appeals which on April 24 upheld the common pleas court holding there was no evidence to support of self defense plea. On May 14 the case was taken to the supreme court.

The indeterminate sentence runs from one to 20 years, according to The Associated Press.

William F. Zahn of Green Camp suffered severe laceration of the tongue and other injuries late yesterday when a hand-sprayer exploded while he was spraying potatoes at his home. He is expected to be confined to home for two or three days. Nine stitches were taken in his tongue.

NAVY ORDERS WORK STARTED ON GIANT SHIPS

Construction Includes Two 45,000-Ton Battleships and 20 Other Vessels.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The navy announced today that work was ordered started on two new 45,000-ton battleships and 20 other warships and auxiliaries last night, within an hour after President Roosevelt signed the navy's $1,400,000,000 appropriation act. The two battleships were assigned to the New York and Philadelphia navy yards, respectively, and the other vessels were divided between government and commercial yards.

Officials said the navy acted with swiftness unmatched even in the World War. The contracts for nine warships assigned to commercial shipbuilding plants had been negotiated while final action on the appropriation was awaited.

The 22 ships will cost more than $327,000,000 to complete, it was estimated.

The speed with which the navy acted found its army counterpart in measures which were said to be designed both to strengthen defenses and furnish substantial assistance to the British and French Allies.

A group of 93 airplanes and millions of dollars worth of munitions were being made available to the Allies by the army under the government's "trade-in" plan of aid.

The 93 war planes, Northrop attack ships, were being concentrated at Houlton, Me., on the Canadian border. The Douglas Aircraft Corp. of Burbank, Calif., successor to the Northrop company, was reported to have agreed to accept them in payment on new planes to be delivered later to the army.

The concentration at Houlton was said to have been decided upon as the most direct way of getting the ships, which are six or seven years old, to the Allies.

"Aid for the Allies" passed from the slogan stage to a program of action today, as congress tackled the job of implementing President Roosevelt's pledge with munitions for the men on the firing lines and money for hapless refugees.

Leaders on Capitol Hill resorted to legislative short cuts, working the provisions for assistance into the $5,021,618,022 sheaf of national preparedness bills now in the final clearance stages.

Extension of the European combat zone to blanket the entire Mediterranean was ordered by the President, ending American-borne maritime commerce with Italy. Mr. Roosevelt gave fresh emphasis to his views by endorsing a "Stop Hitler Now" movement.

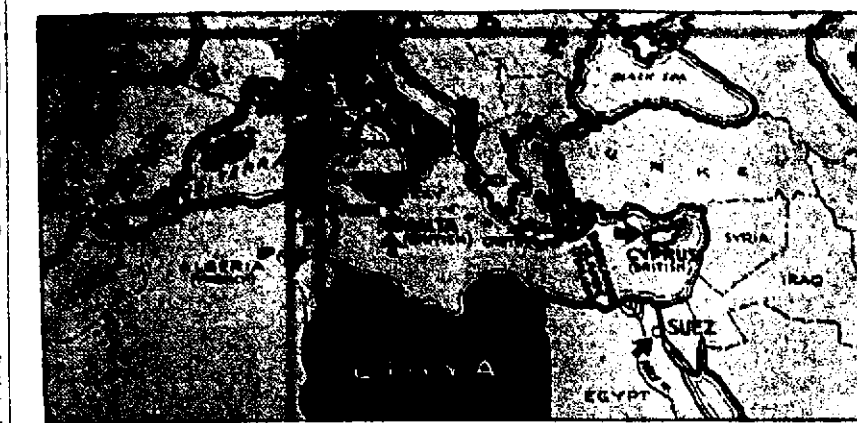

Both senate and house responded yesterday to the call the Chief Executive sounded Monday at Charlottesville, Va., for material aid to the Allies and an accelerated preparedness tempo.

Trade-In Voted

The senate voted 67 to 18 to empower him to "trade in" world war weapons—from rifles to field artillery—to manufacturers who

ITALY BLASTS BORDER BRIDGE

French Say Rome Has Million Men Mobilized Ready for Border Action.

By The Associated Press

TOURS, FRANCE, June 12.—Italian troops blew up a bridge at Vinti Mille on the French border in the Alps today after completing the mobilization of 60 to 70 divisions, a military commander reported today.

(On the basis of an estimated strength of 15,000 men to a division, this would indicate the Italians had massed between 900,000 and 1,050,000 troops along France's southern frontier.)

News of the Italian military activity on France's new front in the south came as the French defenders of Paris look a determined stand along the Marne at Chateau-Thierry and at Meaux. Meaux is only 27 miles east of the heart of the capital and but 15 miles from the nearest suburbs.

West of the capital, a spokesman said, the French succeeded in destroying German units which had crossed the Seine at several points.

Approximately 32 miles north of the capital, the hard-pressed Pollux fought desperately to beat off persistent German attacks in the region of Senlis.

French determination to keep their main forces between the Germans and Paris was seen in the declaration of the military governor of Paris that the capital's defense would not constitute a "strategically isolated operation" but would remain within the frame of maneuver of the entire French forces.

German bombers attacked French airfields and communications in an effort to keep reinforcements from moving up to aid in the defense of the half-emptied capital.

The French replied with bombing expeditions extending "deep" into the German interior, the French spokesman said.

MARION B. TATHAM NAMED POLICEMAN

Elm Street Man Appointed To Fill Vacancy.

Appointment of Marion B. Tatham, 34, of 201 Elm street as a patrolman on the Marion police force, to fill the vacancy created by resignation recently of Patrolman Howard F. Andrews, was announced today.

The announcement was made by Safety-Service Director Clyde C. Caldwell who reported Mr. Tatham will start work June 15. Mr. Tatham was chosen from three men certified as eligible by the city civil service commission. Others on the list were Alfred Kohbarger of Hughes court and Thomas Temple of Kensington place. The men were certified after a competitive examination held last year for previous appointments.

Mr. Tatham, who now operates a service station on North Main street, is married and has two children.

His appointment brings the police department up to "par," Mr. Caldwell said. With Mr. Tatham there will be 17 on the force, including 13 patrolmen, two constables, two desk men and Chief W. E. Martin.

Mr. Tatham will serve a probationary period before becoming a full-fledged policeman. His salary for the first year will be $177.50.

HOUSE VOTES DEFENSE TAXES

Only Six Opposed to Measure To Boost Levies for U. S. Arms.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The unusual spectacle of quick and almost unanimous house passage of an election-year tax bill apparently will be duplicated in the senate, which received today the billion-dollar measure designed to pay emergency defense costs.

Only six votes were cast against the legislation in the house last evening after a single day's debate. Republicans centered their criticism unsuccessfully on the provision boosting the federal debt limit $4,000,000,000 to $40,000,000,000.

Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich.), a World War veteran who shouted one of the "poes" called the house action "war hysteria." Rep. Doughton (D-N.C.) on the other hand, hailed it as refuting "the challenge often hurled at democratic nations that they are too cumbersome and unwieldy to successfully function in a great emergency."

The senate finance committee kept to the house pace by calling Secretary Morgenthau immediately to explain the measure. It is expected to reach the floor next Monday, and debate may last but one day.

Two new proposals appeared likely to arise in the senate, however. Senator Byrd (D-Va.) said that administration forces had accepted his amendment to reduce most federal expenditures by 10 per cent. Senator La Follette (Prog-Wis.) said that he would force full discussion of an excess profits tax on munitions and war materials.

The six house members who held out against the 396 voting for the tax bill were representatives Wolcott (R-Mich.), Alexander (R-Minn.), Crawford (R-Mich.), Thill (R-Wis.), Thorpe (R-Mont.), and Marcantonio (D-N.Y.).

That is the formula applied by all American problems, the spokesman said.

PARIS REPORTS LINE IS HOLDING BEFORE TERRIFIC NAZI DRIVE

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, June 12.—The German high command announced tonight that French troops surrounded at St. Valery, on the English channel, had capitulated and that more than 20,000 prisoners had been taken.

The captives claimed included one French corps general, one British corps general, and four French divisional generals. Material taken thus far was described as "incalculable."

BATTLE-STAINED French Pollux fought doggedly in a "last ditch" defense of Paris today—reportedly holding fast on the old World War battlefields of Chateau Thierry and Meaux along the Marne—while the German high command said its armies had smashed to within 12½ miles of the French capital on the northwest.

"Nowhere have the French defenses been pierced," said a Paris spokesman, who cited terrific German assaults all along the western front from the lower (west) Seine to the Argonne forest.

The Germans reported advances from 50 to 75 miles toward Paris "on many fronts" in the past six days of the titanic struggle.

"Our offensive," it was said, "is going ahead of schedule."

Claim 200 Tanks Destroyed

A report from the Nazi front said quick-firing German anti-aircraft guns, levelled off with an effective horizontal range of eight miles, had destroyed 200 Allied tanks.

Rome reported the first enemy assault on Italian soil since Premier Mussolini declared war Monday—an unspecified attack on the Ligurian coast, where the great Italian shipping port of Genoa is situated.

Earlier, London had reported a British bombing attack on northern Italy.

Anti-aircraft artillery at Turin, Italy's great north-west industrial center, blazed away at enemy planes during the night.

Action in Africa

Other Allied planes—this time the South African air force—bombed Italian military objectives in Ethiopia, the African kingdom which Italy wrested from Haile Selassie in 1935-36.

Prime Minister Churchill conferred with Premier Roy-naud and Generalissimo Weigand somewhere in France yesterday and reached "complete agreement" on steps vital to meet the German onslaught.

The Nazi high command also reported that Rouen, French shipping base on the Seine river, halfway between the capital and Le Havre, has been in German hands for several days.

To the quickening beat of the war tempo, Italy was reported to have handed an ultimatum to Egypt.

CRAWFORD COUNTY OF C. MEETING SET

State Chamber Speakers on Business Program Tuesday.

Increased taxation and greater expenditures will be discussed by members of the Crawford County Council of the Chamber of Commerce meeting in the King's Daughters' house at Bucyrus at 8 p. m. Tuesday, it was announced today by Frank L. Hopwood, president of the First Federal Bank and Loan Co. of Bucyrus, president of the council.

James J. O'Brien, director of the council, and Dr. Arch D.

Schultz, director of the department of research of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, will address the district council on present threats facing Ohio. Apart from increased taxes and increased public expenditures, other threats he lists are increased costs of social security, legislation inimical to private enterprise and radical measures affecting the economy and security of the state and nation.

District councils are now operating in every Ohio county. The councils represent several thousand citizens who form a "back-home" movement to assist the Ohio Chamber to mold public opinion and to carry out programs of public policy. Their immediate aim is the setting up of county committees to check on taxation and public expenditures in a militant public demand for economy in the management of local government.

Test Pilot To Perform at Marion Air Show

Don Walters of Columbus, noted test pilot and upside down flier, who has been signed to take part in the Marion air show Sunday, June 23, is shown above stepping from the cockpit of his clipped-wing Dart special. He will use the ship in stunt maneuvers at 200 miles an hour and in upside down flying 20 feet above the earth.

Signing of the first act for Marion's air show which will be held at the Municipal airport Sunday, June 23 was announced today by the joint committee of the sponsors, the Marion Aviation Boosters club and the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

He is Don Walters of Columbus, test pilot, who has represented Ohio in more than a dozen major air events throughout the country. In private life he is chief test pilot for the Culver Aircraft Corp. at Columbus. In air shows such as Marion's, he indulges in more spectacular stunts.

He is noted especially for his ground-scrapping upside-down flying that will clear the runways at the Marion field by a scant 2 feet.

His special Dart ship will be flown at speeds of 200 miles an hour and more. A "Doc" Freeman of Marion, general chairman of the air show, reported today.

Freeman announced the signing of Walters is the first step toward lining up a full field of nationally known air performers. Others will be selected from pilots who have participated in the National air races at Cleveland, the Havana (Cuba) International air meet and other major events.

The stunts already decided on by the committee include parachute jumping, high-speed test pilot demonstrations, comedy flying, close to the ground dives.

Of special interest to Marionites will be contests in which Marion and visiting fliers will pit their skill as a preliminary to the professional demonstrations. The contests will be under the supervision of Harold "Dick" Dickerson of the Boosters club.

LOTS OF GOLD AND RAIN LAST MONTH

Unusual Weather Recorded at Local Observer's Office.

May was short on warmth and long on rainfall, according to the month's statistics kept by Observer E. H. Rattensperger.

Temperatures for the 31 days averaged 57.55 degrees, 325 degrees under the normal of 60.6 and rainfall measured 4.26 inches, a matter of .65 of an inch over the average for the month.

Some idea of what the month was like is gathered from the reports of the state of the weather, showing that 19 days were cloudy from sunrise to sunset and that the last of the five clear days of the month came on the fourteenth.

Decoration day, 1940, was one of the wettest in recent years. It rained all day and continued on Friday, with a total rainfall of 1.13 inches.

The high temperature for the month, 85, on the sixth and twenty-second, was considerably under the all-time high of 101 in 1911, and the minimum for the month, 32, the night of the third, was considerably above the 24 of 1906.

Records of the observer show that in many May's of years ago there were traces of snow, one weather condition which was missing from last month's report.

High Tide —

By FRANCES HANNA

YESTERDAY, Jan's kitten sketches are rejected, and she quarrels with Derek, calling him a "spineless failure." At the piano Derek finds himself again. Taking Jan's sketches with him, he leaves Sea Tide.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN "Serve Us Right!"

JOHNNY and Rose sought Jan out, their faces disturbed and annoyed.

"Where's Derek?" Johnny asked.

"Gone," said Jan. "Gone for good."

Rose demanded, her eyes hard and greedy with anger, "Are you absolutely positive, Jan, you never at any time had the slightest idea of Derek's real identity?"

"He never told me and I didn't bother him to find out. Why?"

"Why?" Rose asked.

"You tell her, Johnny."

"Well, it's like this," he started, seeming vastly irritated with himself, with Rose and with Jan. "I found out the girl we saw him talking to at the Club was an eastern socialite by the name of Lenore Page. I managed an introduction to some people who knew her and got the low down. It seems this Derek of yours is really Derek Knowles. He's the only son of Gregory Knowles, one of the ten richest financiers in the country, and he's got millions of his own besides. He was all set to marry Lenore Page, then suddenly changed his mind. He disappeared from New York, turned up out here at Mallibu Beach, disappeared again, leaving word he'd come over to watch the map of China change."

"Good heavens!" ranted Rose. "To think I actually lived in the same house for weeks with an honest-to-god goodness millionaire and didn't know it. Oh, I knew there was plenty of money about him, but I thought he was a depression pauper—strictly no-account. I'll never get over this!"

"And I," Johnny agonized, "argued and quarreled with him all the time. Why, if I'd treated him right he could have backed me in a swanky night club with a big swing band of my own!"

Jan looked at their vexed, disappointed faces. She giggled. Laughter started deep inside of her and welled out, peal after peal, helpless laughter, genuine laughter. She held her sides and rocked with it, fumbled for a handkerchief and dabbed at her streaming eyes.

Johnny glowered, but Rose caught the infection of Jan's mirth and smiled widely. "Serve us right," she declared. "Truth is I never had a chance with him, anyhow, so why cry?"

"Just the same," Johnny snapped, "I can't see why it's so darned funny to Jan. She had to wait on him and feed him and she's always stewing around about being broke."

"I'll tell you," she said, subsiding. "In the first place your reaction was terribly silly and most enlightening. In the second place Derek asked me only a few days ago if I'd like to have a million dollars and I told him to stop teasing me about impossible things!"

"That is not laughable," Johnny asserted. "After all, he certainly owes you plenty for all you did for him. Maybe he would have given you a million."

"I wouldn't take it if he did. And he doesn't owe me anything, Johnny. He worked and paid his board. I let him stay here because I liked him and wanted him here. Maybe you'll think twice before you hightail my next roomer!" She started to giggle again and Johnny fled.

"She Has What It Takes!"

Rose placed her hands on Jan's shoulders and shook her gently.

"Stop it, Jan. I suspect a lot of this is hysteria," she hazarded shrewdly. "You're in love with the man, aren't you?"

The younger girl bit her lip. "I thought I was, I guess, but no more. My being in love with a millionaire is as ridiculous as—his being in love with me."

"That's good," Rose said briskly. "Because that Lenore Page is still after him from what I understand, and she certainly has what it takes!"

Jan thought miserably. "She must be the one he told me about—the one who hurt him so dreadfully. Maybe they made up—maybe she went to New York with him." And abruptly all laughter, hysterical or otherwise, left her and she felt wretched because he had gone and more wretched because she'd been such a simpleton as to fall in love with him.

The next day, dismantling Derek's tent on the roof, she found a folded newspaper photo under the mattress of the army cot. A picture of a slim, beautiful girl in luxurious furs lighting from an airplane. It was captioned:

Miss Lenore Page, of Boston, New York and Palm Beach, soon to wed Derek Carter Knowles of New York City in what promises to be one of the most colorful and socially important weddings of the season.

Jan knew, when she tore the picture to bits and flung the pieces over the parapet, that her artist's eye would never forget one curve or line of that exquisite face. Yet, her memory thrust at her, this is the woman responsible for Derek's trying to destroy himself.

"Surely he won't give her another chance to hurt him?" she thought. "He must have learned something during all these months. Oh, I've got to stop thinking about him, worrying about him. I'll never see him again. I won't think any more. I won't!"

During the next few days she endured a fine torture which became increasingly unbearable. She would wake in the morning anticipating breakfast with him before she remembered he had gone; she would walk on the beach and turn to stare if a tall man appeared in the crowd. Neptune would go at night to the trap door and cry as if he mourned, too. She caught herself listening at odd moments for the sound of his step on the walk, on the stairway, for his tuneless whistle. She missed his mocking smile, his teasing deep voice, the way he turned his head, the look of his face when violence and rebellion stirred him to denunciation.

"I Don't Want To Go"

The fifteenth day of June school let out for the summer months and Norma unwillingly turned to packing her clothes. "I really don't want to go home," she told Jan. "I don't fit in any more. They make me feel as if I ought to have a home of my own and a husband. Actually, to them, I'm rapidly becoming an old maid schoolteacher!"

"Then don't go home," Jan said quickly, a plan taking decisive shape in her small head. "I want to go away for awhile, Norma. I think I almost have to go away or give way. You stay here and care for the house and for Lance and I'll go in town for a few weeks and try to get work of some kind. Of course, if I can't get a job I'll have to come back. But I'll get one—I'll have to."

"But do you think I can manage all right?" Norma asked doubtfully, yet hopefully. "Won't Lance object? And what of Rose and Johnny?"

"Well, what of them? Jan inquired, aware of sudden unreasonable irritability. "They only sleep here. As for Lance, I'll try to make him understand and if he doesn't—well, I'll just have to go anyway. Will you do this for me, Norma?"

"I'd love it." Enthusiasm warmed her voice. "I can cook for Lance and do things for him. He's better about her, don't you think?"

"Definitely. He informed me yesterday he'd never seen a woman so crazy for money. Oh, darling, if you do this you'll save my life, or at least my mind, what there is left of it! I'll go talk to Lance right away. And Norma, Jan clasped the other girl's hands affectionately, "will you act upon some terribly well-meant advice?"

"What is it?" she asked.

Jan narrowed her eyes critically at Norma's straight brown hair, parted in the middle and coiled in a heavy severe knot on the nape of her neck, at the dark-rimmed glasses which hid her lovely eyes, at the sweet, colorless face which never bore a hint of makeup, at the crisp white skirt and low-heeled walking shoes.

"Try looking frivolous, darling," Jan advised. Today! There's a good beauty shop around the corner. Let them cut your hair and give you a permanent wave. Then have a facial and buy a few cosmetics and use a little rouge and lipstick and don't wear your glasses when you aren't reading or knitting. You don't have to, do you? You can see fairly well without them? I thought so," she continued when Norma nodded doubtfully. "Then Norma, pack away your school teacher clothes and buy a couple of gaudy beach suits and foolish, floppy sandals and a fluffy ruffy housedress. And, last of all, don't behave like a docile mouse around Lance! Think you can do all this? It might be well worth it!"

A wistful smile parted Norma's lips. "Go frivolous! Oh, Jan, it sounds marvelous! I'll probably resemble a circus clown, but I'll chance it, if you think I should."

"Right now," Jan insisted. "While I'm talking to Lance you trot yourself to the beauty parlor. A woman's entitled to use every trick up her sleeve to get her man!" She wished, privately, that she herself had used a few more tricks while she had Derek under her roof, or should she say, on her roof? Probably been a waste of good energy, though, for he certainly didn't appear affected with heart palpitation when she was near. And she had been an exacting taskmaster, too exacting, perhaps. "I don't care," she reflected with a burst of genuine unselfish love, "if he goes ahead with his music. If he can compose one thing of lasting beauty, a cracked foolish heart in Sea Tide is negligible."

SAFETY FIRST PRACTICED BY MANHATTAN REFUGEES

A few of the refugees reached the U.S. liner Manhattan after a perilous voyage from Genoa, Italy. They are shown upon arrival in New York.

Gallon Man Home with Harrowing Story of German Invasion of Belgium

Special to The Star
ON June 12—One of the refugees to arrive in New York today on the liner Manhattan from Genoa, Italy, was Adams, who reached Gallon to see his wife and two children who have been living with mother Mrs. Catherine Adams while he was in Europe.

One month ago Adams was a member of the International Telephone & Telegraph Co. in Antwerp, Belgium. He left the city for Gallon after it was bombed and from Paris he went to Genoa three days before the refugees left, he said for fear they would not be able to leave Italy before she entered the war making escape from Europe almost impossible.

Adams said he believed that the Italian people did not want to go to war against the Allies but that posters published by the army officials and government had caused many of the demonstrations against the Allies.

Halted on Border
Getting into France from Belgium required much red tape Adams related. At La Panne, a city on the coastal frontier, he had to wait seven days until the French would permit him to enter here. He could see a British war ship stationed four miles out but he could not see it to get. He saw British ships sweeping mines along the coast. No taxis were available there were no trains and he couldn't write a letter giving him the feeling that he was trapped he related. So cautious were the French that he couldn't use a telephone to call the American consulate at a nearby city and had to have a police man do the telephoning with not much information gained about getting across the French frontier.

After finally getting across the border he found the roads blocked with refugees to Paris. An old woman around 80 walking with a small child whose feet were doubling under with fatigue whispered courage to the whimpering child he said.

An impressive sight he related was the entrance of the French troops into Belgium. They were cheered by the Belgians. The French entered the country in every possible conveyance bicycles, motorcycles taxis old cars and such.

Saw Fifth Column Work
One of the most outstanding impressions of his travels in Europe was the activity of the fifth column in Belgium and France. He said that everywhere they tried to instill fear in the hearts of the civilians behind the lines. It was hardly safe to wear a brown suit he said because these were worn by the parachutists, and any one appearing in this color was under suspicion. If suspicious characters were jailed it would take nearly a month before their cases could be heard. So great were the numbers that they were jailed that they were placed in houses instead of regular jails and were surrounded by guards. Everywhere there was distrust. Mr. Adams said.

In Antwerp he said the fighting took place outside the city. When it was first bombed he felt fear but afterward was able to sleep. An anti aircraft gun firing near his residence was more startling than the bombing, he said.

One had to be extremely careful about saying anything about war activities and could not comment discouragingly. Everyone with an accent was in danger of imprisonment Adams stated.

On board the Manhattan were 887 aliens and during the crossing of the Atlantic there was one birth one death and an attempted suicide.

Because of the trouble in crossing the border from Belgium into France Adams said he was lucky because his car was one of 25 which went directly to Paris and much of the success of getting through was because his party had painted letters on their car said they were connected with the army which was true to the extent that they had followed army cars.

He was arrested once for possessing a camera and was not allowed to take any pictures of any war activities. Most of his possessions were left behind.

ROME REPORTS ENEMY ATTACK

Fighting Said To Be Along
Coast on French Border;
Plane Raids Revealed.

By The Associated Press

ROME June 12—Enemy action against points in northern Italy along the Ligurian coast were authoritatively reported today, but details were withheld pending an official announcement.

The Ligurian coast is that between Leghorn and the French-Italian frontier. Genoa lies on it and the important cities of Turin and Milan are just north of it.

(The Rome reports did not indicate whether the action consisted of air or naval attacks.)

With British planes operating against Libya from Egypt, an authoritatively reported source said, relations between Italy and Egypt depended on developments in military action.

Italy's intention to refrain from dragging Egypt into the war—provided the remains neutral—was announced by Premier Mussolini on Monday, but he said that he would not change an informant said.

Italy received the first news of the operation of her armed forces today when the high command announced that Italian planes had attacked the British naval base at Malta with apparent results.

At the same time it was reported that the British air force had been driven off in an attempted flight from Egypt over the Libyan border into Cyrenaica, and that two enemy planes had been shot down.

The high command said that the attack on Malta was begun at sunset yesterday and resumed at dawn today. All Italian planes were said to have returned to their bases.

Except for these aerial combats the first day of the war for Italy apparently was devoted largely to the deployment of forces at various points where troops took up previously prepared positions.

Announcement that the air force had gone into action came after a night during which the war was brought home to Rome by the shelling of air raid sirens and the clamping down of defense measures.

The alarm came at 1:40 p. m. (7:40 p. m. Marion time Tuesday) but whether enemy planes actually flew over the city could not be determined.

By The Associated Press
LONDON June 12—An exchange of telegrams (British news agency) dispatch from Cairo today said it was reported that the Italian minister had delivered an ultimatum from the Italian government to Egypt.

By The Associated Press
LONDON June 12—The Egyptian chamber of deputies today approved a declaration by Prime Minister Ali Maher Pasha severing diplomatic relations with Italy. Reuters (British News Agency) reported in a dispatch from Cairo.

French Troops Make Stand at Marne

taxian army, based in 1914 to turn the German tide.

The Germans were reported to have been driven back from the full-blown attack on Paris.

The French military spokesman acknowledged that the situation was one of extreme difficulty.

Reims Claimed By Nazis

The famous cathedral city of Reims was also claimed by the Germans according to its high command.

"The enemy was thrown back across the lower (west) Seine," it was said.

French Nearing Epic Stand at Gates of Paris

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

When you see the epic stand of the French it is making before Paris, a line of battle that you understand how it is that men in cheer while comrades are dying.

This day and night the French make a heroic stand to record the battle of Marne is no more than it has been for days.

Indeed, the French high command has decided to withdraw to positions south of the historic Marne river which flanks the capital to the east, the defense should be considerably easier.

Generalissimo Weygand's strategy apparently contemplates also utilizing the Seine which forms a flank for Paris in the west, as a complementary defense line. Although his present front bulges out to the north of the capital.

First Solid Front

This Marne-Paris combination would give the first solid front the French have had since the German crashed the Allied line up in the Somme and Aisne river early in the offensive. Strategically it is stronger for the terrain makes it easier to defend.

Whether the Germans will be able to force their way into the beleaguered city depends on how much their stamina has been sapped by the fury of their prolonged offensive.

They have the men and materials to turn the tide, but how they will reverse strength remains to be seen. We shall have to wait and see.

If Weygand can hold not only Paris but his lines along the Marne and Seine rivers it may be the turning point of the war.

If the Germans exhaust themselves in this assault their position will become decidedly uncomfortable since Hitler is believed to have thrown into this drive virtually every ounce of strength he possesses.

Went Mean Success

Even the capture of Paris would mean success for the German further unless in the process he crushed the French armies.

Paris shall get action in this southern war zone soon enough. The closure of the Seine canal to Italian shipping has immediately raised difficulties for Mussolini. He is dependent on the canal to reach Ethiopia and his possessions on the Red sea.

One would expect heavy fighting to develop in this area. Not only must Mussolini keep this gateway open for his own use, but he wants to close it to the British thereby to bring them to use the long sea route around South Africa to reach the Far East. This would of course be a grave blow to England and the Allied cause.

U. S. SPEEDS PLANE TRANSFER TO ALLIES

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK June 12—Evidence of a speed-up in the movement of surplus U. S. army warplanes to Great Britain and France increased today in the wake of President Roosevelt's declaration of full material aid to the Allies.

A squadron of 19 Northrop attack planes enroute to Mitchell Field N. Y. from March Field Calif. made emergency landings at nine eastern airports—and in a Brooklyn street—after they were trapped by fog last night by fog and low flying fuel.

Aviation sources said the planes had been consigned to Buffalo N. Y. as obsolete military aircraft available for Allied purchase.

Army officials in Washington were in a hurry to get an export permit in moving papers here that 90 air troop bombers had been sent to the border airport at Hamilton Me. in anticipation of their sale through a private corporation to the Allies.

At the Buffalo airport reports persisted that between 50 and 200 planes in addition to 50 U. S. navy bombers flown there Thursday were expected shortly for training and re-sale to the governments of France and Britain.

Twenty-four of the navy bombers already have left for the Canadian border and European war fields.

BELLFONTAINE O., June 12—Possibility of a 20-year term in Ohio penitentiary for manslaughter today faced 19-year-old Donald Slater.

Common Pleas Judge Lawrence Zupp indicated he would not pronounce sentence before Saturday to permit Slater to be defended by counsel.

Battle in Ethiopia

The London Daily Herald reported that 200,000 Ethiopian troops wearing the uniform of the ex-Emperor Haile Selassie, the conquered Lion of Judah, are battling Italian troops in Fascist-occupied Ethiopia.

In the northwest provinces of Gojam and Harar, four Italian garrison towns are surrounded by Ethiopians, said the London news.

A French spokesman said the German armies were attacking "practically everywhere" between the lower (west) Seine and the Argonne forest in the 8-day-old battle for Paris.

"No where have the French defenses been pierced," he declared, adding that fierce fighting was centering around Semilly, 26 miles north of Paris.

British bombers, roaring across northern Italy to rain explosives on military objectives, brought home to the Italian people the meaning of the war into which Premier Mussolini plunged them less than 36 hours ago.

Almost simultaneously the Italian high command withdrew the veil of secrecy from its own operations by announcing that a series of air raids had been carried out with parent results against the British Mediterranean naval base in Malta.

Deny Libya Damage

The Libyan announcement said that British air raids on desert airfields in Libya had not been as devastating as London had claimed. A great success, had been beaten off without serious damage.

Neutral Switzerland also felt the horrors of war when unidentified planes dropped bombs which killed four persons and injured at least 10 at Geneva and near Lugano.

Rome itself experienced its first air raid alarm early this morning, but no bombs were dropped and it could not be determined whether enemy planes had actually approached the city.

The Italian communiqué said Rome fighting furiously to stave off a possible German offensive, but that the northern suburbs could hear the rumbling of heavy guns and see their flashes in the gray of early dawn.

From the provisional French capital at Tours, the war ministry announced that German planes had been driven back across the river but the position of the city apparently was still precarious.

The French command acknowledged that its soldiers now west of Paris had withdrawn to the south bank of the Marne.

"No More Miracles"

Germans said there would be no "Miracle of the Marne" this time.

A ray of hope for the Allies was the announcement in New York that $37,600,000 worth of old United States ordnance, munition and equipment would be available for sale by a deal between the U. S. war department and the U. S. Steel Export Co.

President Roosevelt asked the congress to appropriate $50,000,000 for relief of European civilians.

The President placed the Mediterranean sea in the combat zone closing it to American ships.

That it truly was a combat zone was evidenced by the Italian bombing of Malta by a falling British air raid on Italian Libya and E. sea. Even Britain's south African air force dashed across from her colony to bomb military objectives in the desolate area of Italian Mayale on the southern Ethiopian border.

An older war area almost forgotten in the past few months sprang back into the news as Britain announced last night the striking of two German cruisers and a transport with air bombs in Trondheim Norway.

Soviet Embassy Damaged

In the heart of the Japanese invasion of China, Japanese planes have bombed Chungking to show that this distant war was still very much in progress. The Soviet embassy was badly damaged.

Japan announced she had concluded a treaty of friendship with Thailand (Siam) which her foreign office spokesman hailed as unmistakable evidence of Japan's peaceful intentions in the south Pacific.

Possibility of the further spread of the European war through Turkey's fulfillment of her mutual assistance pact with the British and French was said by informed Turkish sources to depend on Soviet Russia.

If Russia jumps in they said Turkey must perform. Lay Low if not Turkey will carry out her pledge of aid in the eastern Mediterranean.

ITALIANS FIRE LINER CAUGHT BY WARSHIP

BY THE Associated Press

SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA June 12—Arthur Cameron, minister of the navy, announced today the Italian liner Romolo, carrying passengers and a valuable cargo had been set on fire by its crew in mid-Pacific when it was intercepted by a warship.

The Romolo left Brindisi, Italy on June 5. It carried 5,000 bales of wool.

The navy minister's announcement said the crew took to boats after setting the ship ablaze. No further details were known.

FLAG WEEK PROGRAM GIVEN BY ROTARIANS

Speakers Give History of Emblem and Rules for Display.

In observance of flag week the Marion Rotary club had a special program following its weekly luncheon at Hotel Harding yesterday.

Earl A. Hale, secretary of the club, read a paper giving a history of the flag and explaining its symbolism. He said that although there were different interpretations of the colors of the national emblem, there has been general acceptance of the views of one noted authority, who designated the red as symbolic of courage, the white as liberty and the blue as loyalty.

For a clear understanding of patriotism and the significance of the flag Mr. Hale advised reading of the book, "The Man Without a Country," which tells the dramatic story of an American sentenced to exile for a "disloyal" utterance to the land without hearing the name of his country mentioned and to be denied all news of its events and progress.

George Hill, a past president of Rotary and a World War veteran who served overseas explained the proper ways to display, and salute the flag, and emphasized that it should always be regarded as a "living symbol."

As a convenient and easy guide for displaying the flag he suggested keeping in mind that we speak of it always as the Stars and Stripes and that the design should be displayed in that order—the Stars first, the Stripes second.

One of the audience mentioned that during the recent rains some flags in Marion were kept on display and Mr. Hill was asked whether this was not a violation of the rules. The speaker's answer was that in the case of civilians the flag should not be exposed to inclement weather and should be removed to shelter under such conditions. The same rule however does not apply to military display.

Leaflets giving rules and instructions relating to the flag were distributed to the members and guests.

The program was in charge of John K. Bartram acting as program chairman during the absence of George F. Plonk who is attending Rotary International at Havana, Cuba.

It should be cultured artistic inclination.
